Each year the Department of Pesticide Regulation (DPR) honors California organizations for their integrated pest management (IPM) achievements. The IPM Achievement Awards recognize organizations that are leaders in using reduced-risk pest management practices and sharing their successful strategies with others. Previous winners include IPM experts working on some of California’s most challenging pest issues—from pests in vineyards and almond orchards to pests at schools and parks.

At the annual IPM Achievement Awards ceremony, DPR highlights the exceptional work and accomplishments of each organization. Award winners, invited guests, and others gather to celebrate and network with each other at this fun and lively event.

Anyone can nominate an organization for an IPM Achievement Award! To submit a nomination, go to the DPR website or scan here:
